

INDOOR MEET SOCIETY EVENT

A Large Number of the Boxes
Have Already Been Reserved.

THREE HUNDRED ATHLETES

Many College and School Teams
Will Compete On Next Saturday Evening.

Society has taken hold of the indoor meet which occurs next Saturday night at the Horse Show Building, when a brilliant gathering will be present. Nearly all of the boxes are now taken, only a few choice ones being left. The sale of seats to representative people also indicates that the meet will be made quite a social affair. Twenty-five colleges and schools have entered teams which aggregate about 350 trained athletes. Conspicuous parts will be taken by University of Virginia, Georgetown, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, George Washington College, of Washington; Western Maryland College, Richmond College, Randolph-Macon, William and Mary, Episcopal High School, Woodberry Forest, Washington School for Boys, and many others. All the officials will be in evening dress, many of them being celebrated athletes of Northern universities. A number of the boxes have been taken by the young society men of the city. Below is a list of those who have secured boxes.

1. Dr. Stuart McGulre.
2. Mr. F. W. Smallman.

RUSS LEAVES BROWN FOR MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
ANN ARBOR, MICH., February 2.—August Russ, Brown's premier athlete, captain of the Providence school's football eleven last season, and one of Walter Camp's selections for substitutes, on the All-American, will enter Michigan next year. The news is held to be authentic, as it comes from an old Brown man, who knows Russ personally. Michigan's athletics will not be benefited by Russ's coming, for the crack Brownian has participated his allotted time in college sports. He has also figured in track athletics at the Eastern University for four years. Were he eligible, he would undoubtedly be a valuable addition to either track or gridiron squad, as his record shows.

FOUR CLUBS GIVEN PRIZE FIGHT PERMITS

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
SAN FRANCISCO, February 2.—All prize-fight permits for this year in San Francisco will be divided among the four clubs managed by Coffroth, Graney, Morris, Levy and Willis Britt. This will permit managers to secure better men, and it will prevent any ambitious outsider from butting in. It will also enable the managers to form a trust and keep down the exorbitant demands of the fighters.

The police committee of supervisors has recommended the following distribution of permits: Hayes Valley Club (Levy), January, May, September; Yosemite (Coffroth), February-June, October; National (Graney), March-July, November; Golden Gate (Britt), April-August, December.

To Keep Jockeys Caged.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NEW YORK, February 2.—Last season at Belmont Park there was inaugurated a system to keep the jockeys engaged to ride to themselves, and it is a rule that appears to have met with general approbation by the other racing associations. For the coming season the Coney Island Jockey Club is erecting a new building for the jockeys and the clerk of the scales and his assistants. There the custom for keeping jockeys strictly to themselves will be rigidly enforced. The Brooklyn Jockey Club has also announced its intentions to isolate the jockeys from the public, and it is presumed that both Brighton and Saratoga will follow suit.

ENGLISH FIGHTER IS AFTER JACK O'BRIEN

Britt Discusses Coming Match
Between Jack O'Brien and Jack Palmer.

KAUFMANN SEEMS A COMER

It will not be a real world's championship fight, but it will be very interesting, anyway. All the fighters in this country should be glad to see the English getting good and busy again in the ring game, because international affairs do more to keep the sport briskly than anything short of big championship battles.

Very little is known of Jack Palmer on this side of the water. He has never fought over here, but there are men here who have seen him in action. As good a judge as Charlie Mitchell thinks well of his chances with many of the American heavies. Mitchell saw him fight in England when he was over recently. He planned then to bring the English boxer back with him and campaign him in the general scramble for the title Jeffries left, but it seems that James Lowe, the Newcastle promoter, beat Mitchell to it.

Unless O'Brien's views have undergone a sharp change, he does not rate the Englishman very highly. The story is that O'Brien saw Palmer fight when Jack was making his barn-storming tour of England. He watched him through one battle, and then offered to meet him and guarantee to stop him inside of ten rounds.

That isn't a very good boost for Palmer, but Jack must feel somewhat the same way, or he would hardly have agreed to a battle at this stage of the game. With his prospects for gain and glory among the top-notchers it would be a very funny thing for so astute a matchmaker as O'Brien to hook up with a man who has a good chance to beat him.

O'Brien evidently feels that he can surely take the English heavyweight's measure, thereby adding a little lustre to his reputation and considerable lucre to his bank roll.

Palmer is liked by the British sporting public, and it is said that he will be well backed in a fight with O'Brien. He is considerably better than the Philadelphia pug, according to report, and is a punishing hitter.

If the story of the purse is true, O'Brien has certainly received a golden offer, as offers go across the big drink. Lowe is to hang up $10,000 for the fight, and O'Brien will be given $1,000 for expenses. They are certainly loosening up over there.

It is a peculiar coincidence that this same man who has dug up an opponent for O'Brien, the first man to give the American liberal recognition when he went to England. Lowe matched O'Brien in his first important fight in England.

Al Kaufmann came back gamely from his defeat at the hands of Jack O'Brien. That young man is a comer. He will be the first man to give the American liberal recognition when he went to England. Lowe matched O'Brien in his first important fight in England.

to recognize that a quick mix-up would do it.

That slowness is his greatest weakness. He must overcome that before he can hope to win decisively from experienced ring generals such as he will have to meet in the heavyweight class. With more ring knowledge in his head and that deadly right hand punch in his glove, he will be about as vivid a proposition as the heavyweight class affords within a year or two.

If Kaufmann had nothing else in his favor but Billy Delaney, he would be worth attention. Delaney has brought out two great champions, Jeffries and Corbett, and he has picked up few gold bricks in the fighting line. This is a good omen for Kaufmann, and the fact that O'Brien tore him to pieces did not shake Delaney's confidence in his young protégé.

Kaufmann must beat a few more of the "shortstops," and then he will be in line for the big show. Many enthusiasts out here would almost be willing to back him against Marvin Hart now, but that is more than a trifle premature. Delaney will probably hold the young fellow back now until he is certain that the time is ripe, and then go after the crowd at the top. Whenever Delaney thinks Kaufmann can beat the best of them it will be awfully dangerous to bet on the other man.

We don't hear much of that Nelson McGovern fight any more. Strange. From the character of the conversation which Silent Nolan has handed out in the six weeks past, I had sort of acquired the opinion that he would die of nervous prostration if he did not get action with Terry shortly.

It couldn't be possible that Nolan broke his life-time habit of silence merely to keep his name in the papers, not even for the benefit of the theatrical business. Terry is also on the stage, I believe, or threatens to be.

Nelson is a good game little man, and if the matter were left to him it is a safe bet there would be a unanimous vote for a fight with anybody who has a ghost of a claim. He is the kind of a champion who believes that a champion ought to fight when he is asked to defend his title. He has done more and talked less than most fighters in the ring. But don't couple him up with his manager and strike a conventional average. The result will be bad.

I see that they have "went and done it" in the three-round game in New York. It was boxing, beginning with something like a standing and a foot hold in the big city once more the wild rush to grab a few dollars out of it wrecked the game. And of course, it was a little penny ante "club" that was responsible.

Some so-called promoter put on a lot of green school-boys to punch each other for the sake of the money. It was a round, and it so happened that one of the children had a weak heart. He took a heart punch and died before they could get a doctor to him.

Now, there were no fighters nor real fighting men in any way connected with the fly-by-night concern that was responsible for the boy's death. It was just the same accident is another body blow to the ring in the East. The enemies of boxing will point to it as another horrible example of "another pugilist killed in the brutal sport."

Maybe it's the hand that drives the rivets in the hand that rules the ring. Jeffries was boxing with the promoter, and he was a sleep-producer, and now there is another of his guild who is coming to the front in the amateur tournaments about "B" to him.

His name is Bill Moch, and he looks a little like Jeff. He is reputed to have an awful wallop, and is popular at the amateur shows on account of his fighting tendencies. He says he wants to meet Al Kaufmann.

Still waiting for some news from Tom O'Brien's new club on the outskirts of Philadelphia. From the reports that have reached here one would suppose that O'Brien had matched about most of the heavyweights in captivity, but there has been nothing definite.

The solution of the matter probably is that none of the fighters are willing to fight with the promoter, and the reports will pay, and O'Brien probably wants to gamble. The club is rather far from New York, which is part of Philadelphia's best paying territory, and if the New York crowd will not come down the chances are that there will be something doing.

fast little Eastern Shore League, and James Finley, who for the past two seasons has played with Pennsylvania teams. Second-base will be looked after by the veteran H. J. O'Neill, who for three seasons has been good enough for the fast New England League. Last season O'Neill was with the Taunton, Mass., club, and defunct, otherwise Manager Landgraf could not have secured him.

MCCORMACK IS A STAR.
The short-stop is Jim McCormack, another veteran. Jim, for several seasons was with Cortland and Utica, of the New York League, and also had a trial with the New York National League club several years ago. Last season McCormack captained the Cortland Club, champions of the Eastern League, and will guard the third bag for the Portsmouth club.

THE OUTFIELDERS.
Manager Landgraf has Tim Poole, who last season was with Oswego of the Empire League, a clever fielder, exceedingly fast baserunner and good stickler, and "Butch" Gunther, for several seasons in Western New York and Hudson River League. In the latter league Gunther batted .255 and fielded .980 in 85 games.

(By Associated Press.)
DAYTONA, Fla., Feb. 3.—Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's 20-horse-power automobile, which was first given in condition for racing in time to participate in the Ormond-Daytona race, has been put in perfect condition and will be taken to Atlantic Beach, Fla., where it will be run at an early date, not yet fixed, in an effort to lower the world's record that was made last week on the beach here. An official timer will be sent down from New York.

GOULD DESCRIBES
CUBA'S AUTO COURSE
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NEW YORK, February 3.—Auto racing enthusiasts are interested in the account given by Mr. Howard Gould of the new Cuban course, which Mr. Gould and party covered in an auto, while the yacht Niagara, upon which the party was cruising, lay at anchor in Havana harbor.

The course extends from Havana to San Cristobal, a distance of sixty miles. It is almost a straight road, and, according to Mr. Gould, the Cubans are expending every effort to have the road in proper condition for the contests in February. Sixteen steam rollers were encountered by the Gould party on the course, and Mr. Gould predicts that record will fall when the racing begins there.

GOLFERS WILL GATHER AT PINEHURST LINKS

Will Be the Biggest and Most Important Professional Golf Event This Winter.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
PINEHURST, N. C., February 3.—A big week of golf has been arranged in connection with the local clubs annual St. Valentines match play tourney, which continues through February 14, 15, 16 and 17, the event being preceded by two days of professional golf for a purse of $500, $200, $150, $100 and $50.

Seventy-two holes, medal play, will be played, eighteen holes morning and afternoon on Monday and Tuesday, the twelfth and thirteenth, and the big field of contestants will include the English professionals now touring this country, Sandy Herd, Andrew Kirkaldy, Jack White and Roland Jones, and a score or more of leading Americans, including open champion Willie Anderson, Alex Smith, Bernard and Gilbert Nichols, Alex Campbell, Jack Joly, George Low, David Ogilvie, Walter Fovargne, A. H. Fenn, Alex Findlay, Donald and Alex Rose, and others.

The contest will, without question, be the biggest and most important professional golf event of the entire winter, and the only opportunity offered to see the English visitors matched against the leading American professionals.

The "St. Valentines" Tourney will begin Wednesday morning with an eighteen hole qualification round, a gold medal being offered for the best score, and a big field of entries including leading amateurs from many sections is assured, including many of the participants in the recent midwinter tournament and large delegations from Washington, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, New York and Massachusetts.

Four divisions are provided for by the president's, secretary's, treasurer's, and captain's cups, and special cups will be given for additional honors. There will also be cups for the runners up in each division and cups for the winners of consolation in each division made up of those defeated in the first round of match play.

Manchester Bureau, Times-Dispatch, }
No. 1102 Hull Street. }

Manchestrians are watching with a lively interest the proceedings in the Henrico Circuit Court which are for the purpose of extending the city limits of Richmond and taking in territory upon which manufacturing sites may be erected and homes for the working people built.

Annexation to Manchester is a vital issue, the only subject discussed on the streets and the sentiment of the voters is divided as to which side will win at the "show down." The decision of Judge Nicol will, to a large extent, have a weight with the Manchester voters as to how they will cast their ballots when it comes to a question of deciding whether or not Manchester is to become a part of Richmond or to remain a separate corporation.

In the Churches To-day.
Rev. J. A. Sullivan, pastor of Oak Grove Baptist Church, will deliver the address at the men's meeting in Leader Hall this afternoon, under the auspices of the Railroad Young Men's Christian Association. The meeting this afternoon will be for ladies as well as men, it being the first time that ladies have been allowed to attend.

In Oak Grove Baptist Church to-day the services will be conducted by the Rev. J. A. Sullivan. The subject in the morning will be "Love's Triumph Over Sin." At night the pastor's subject will be "Lord, Remember Me." "Songs in the dark" will be one of the features of the evening service. At night the capitation service will take place.

"Instability of Wavering" will be the subject of Rev. J. H. Cuthrell in Asbury Methodist Church this morning, and tonight his subject will be, "The Great Shepherd."
